In April 2021, I was working as a bartender and had no idea about how to use programming languages. Hypertext Markup Language was just set of words as a Cascading Style Sheets. Now I have self-developed dynamic projects written on JavaScript, SPAs based on React, some of them provided with Redux technologies.

That is mean I have no working experience? Yes. First of all that is mean, I am passionate person who have a goal. A goal - to become a great developer who creates awesome products, helps people by own work, daily improves his skills and enjoys his job.

I have good communication skills because of my ex job. In addition, I have experience in personnel Management, received on club bar-manager position and duty soldier in army. Graduating from linguistic university gives me B1-B2 English level. Unfortunately, last years I had no practice, so I forgot a lot, but now I am working on it.

So what about Hard Skills? Please look at the list below and check my GitHub. Most of the projects have Readme file with an active project link. Thank you for your interest! Feel free to contact me in any way possible.
